No-Kill Court Case Continues

Legal maneuvers continue in the no-kill court case as the state attorney general's office has filed a motion requesting Circuit Court Judge Alton T. Davis to reconsider his decision allowing an injunction against no-kill rules on the AuSable to remain.

If the state is unsuccessful in this attempt to have Davis change his decision, they can appeal the case to a higher court. The motion for Davis to reconsider his decision was filed April 6. The state contends Davis used the wrong standard of review. The state says the court applied the competent, material, and substantial evidence test rather than the arbitrary and capricious standard of review.

Motorists Urged To Slow Down For Wild Turkeys Crossing

It's turkey weather in Crawford County as wild turkeys are on the move throughout the county. Three of the wild birds were hit by cars in the county Monday, April 13. Two were hit on North Down River Road near the new MATES complex and another turkey was reported struck in Beaver Creek Township. Motorists are urged to drive slower near crossings used by turkeys.

GHS Baseball Team Has Catcher's Mitt Stolen

The GHS baseball team had a $140 new Pro Wilson catcher's mitt stolen last week along with an extra large, green and white Viking duffel bag. The mitt and bag were locked in the dugout last Tuesday, April 7, and were discovered missing Wednesday afternoon, April 8. Other equipment was found scattered in the dugout equipment room but the lock was still on the door. The Vikings open their season April 25 and need the catcher's mitt. The team is asking for the glove to be returned and no questions will be asked.

The show is jam-packed with delightful, toe-tapping music that will be enjoyed by everyone.

The setting of the musical is the halls and rooms of Westview High School. The story of the show revolves around the fact that the annual homecoming football game has been scheduled on an away game, thus homecoming has been canceled.

DNR To Hold Hearing On Grayling Planting

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources will be holding a public information meeting Thursday, April 16, on the reintroduction of grayling into local waters.

The local waters receiving grayling will be Kneff Lake, in Crawford County, the mainstream AuSable below Mio in Oscoda county, and the Manistee from Yellow Tree to Sharon. Horseshoe Lake in Crawford County will not be receiving grayling. Horseshoe Lake in Alcona County will be receiving grayling. A DNR press release mixed up the two. The information meeting will start at 7 p.m. in the Crawford County courthouse basement.

For more information contact the Mio district office 826-3211.

Questions Continue About Natural River Plan For AuSable

By Don Geiss

A question and answer session in Grayling last week about the Department of Natural Resources proposal to include the AuSable River in the Natural Rivers Plan often turned into an attack on the Natural Resources Commission.

Comments from a number of the 25 persons attending the meeting indicated that the no-kill trout fishing ruling for the river and the possible removal of dams in the area have caused much distrust of any new program. One individual attending the meeting expressed the feeling that Douglas Carter, the DNR chief of the Natural Rivers Program, was not giving direct answers.

Arthur Kerle, another property owner, commented that the NRC has not much support here. He said, "You cannot make people here believe that the NRC will not adopt the plan as it is now written."

Walter Isenbauer said that there is very little land along the East Branch of the AuSable that is above six feet above the water table. Under the Land Alteration section of the plan there is a prohibition against filling on the floodplain where the groundwater is within six feet of the surface. Carter answered by indicating that Zoning Boards can provide a variance for such cases.

Carter was reminded that he also has stated in the past that if there are too many variances the state will step in and stop them from being issued.

Peak Fire Season Arrives Early Here

Peak forest fire season came a lot earlier to Crawford County this year.

"We had an early spring and it's been one of our drier springs so far," said local DNR fire fighter Dan Schrock. "It's going to take a lot of rain to keep this from being one of our worst springs for fire conditions."

Crawford County had its first brush fire this year on March 17 — one of the earliest dates ever according to veteran DNR fire fighter Duane Brooks.

There were two brush fires in March and there have been four so far in April in the county. The biggest fire was about one and a half acres. The other five were less than one acre.

Last Saturday with dry conditions and a high wind, fire conditions in Crawford County almost reached the extreme level, said Schrock. The DNR rates fire conditions from low, moderate, high, very high, to extreme based on weather conditions and forest moisture conditions.

The worst time in Crawford County for forest fires is in spring before the forests and ground cover have turned green.

With the snow gone from the ground, DNR fire fighters remind all county residents that any type of burning requires a permit. Persons may stop by the field office or phone 348-6371 for a permit. The permits are issued on a day to day basis. On days with dangerous fire conditions, the DNR can deny permits.

"Crawford County residents have been great about obtaining permits," said Schrock. "Other counties around us have had more small fires."

Permits are required for all burning from now until the snow is back on the ground next winter. Some burning is allowed in barrels that meet certain specifications. The DNR field office has information on legal burn barrels.

Many brush and forest fires in Crawford County are started by people burning leaves, brush, or rubbish. Besides facing a misdemeanor charge, anyone allowing a fire to escape is responsible for paying the costs of suppressing the fire.

Permits for burning may be obtained by calling the DNR field office 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday-Friday and 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Indiana Guard Asks To Use State Land Outside Camp Grayling

By Don Geiss

The Indiana National Guard wants more room to conduct military maneuvers this summer and has asked the Department of Natural Resources to use part or all of 21 additional sections in Crawford County. The additional 21 sections are outside the borders of the 150,000 acres owned or leased by Camp Grayling.

According to a DNR official, the 38th Infantry Division of Indiana has requested the Michigan State Military Board to seek the permission for using the additional land from June 1 to August 31, 1987. A letter from the state military requesting the use of the land was sent to the Lansing DNR headquarters and was forwarded to the field for recommendation.

The DNR spokesman said that the field opinion is to deny the permission. The final decision will be made presumably in the Lansing office.

Sections requested are 3-8-17-20-29 in Township 28 North, Range 3 West. That area is north of Crawford County Road 612 and the first tier of north south sections east of the I-75 Expressway.

The second block of sections requested include 13-14-15-22-23-24-25-26-27 Township 26 North, Range 3 West. Those sections are located along Barker Lake Road and end at Thendara Road but south of M-72 east. Section 15 is the first one immediately east of Camp AuSable.

Sections 9-10-11-14-15-16-17 in Township 25 North, Range 3 West includes the land adjacent to the I-75 Expressway east of its junction with U.S. 27. It includes the state portions of the sections where Skyline Ski Area is located. Sections 11 and 14 are along Staley Lake Road.

The DNR interpretation of the land use request is because the Indiana Guard will be in the area 17,000 strong during the June 13-20 training period. That number of troops is one half of the total to be on the scene from all National Guard Units during the entire summer.

Dawn Patrol May Top 1,800 Record

The 11th Annual Dawn Patrol sponsored by the Kirtland Aviation Chapter Sunday, May 3rd, will try to break records set last year.

In 1986 more than 1,800 persons attended the Dawn Patrol and 150 planes flew in for the event held at the Grayling McNamara Airport.

This year the Dawn Patrol will feature an aerobatic show featuring Don Fortin in his Steen Skybolt performing stalls, spins, and other maneuvers.

World War II vintage aircraft will also be on display at the Dawn Patrol. A PSI Mustang U.S. fighting and surveillance single-engine plane will be on display. The low-wing airplane has a 12-cylinder Allison engine that burns 130 gallons an hour.

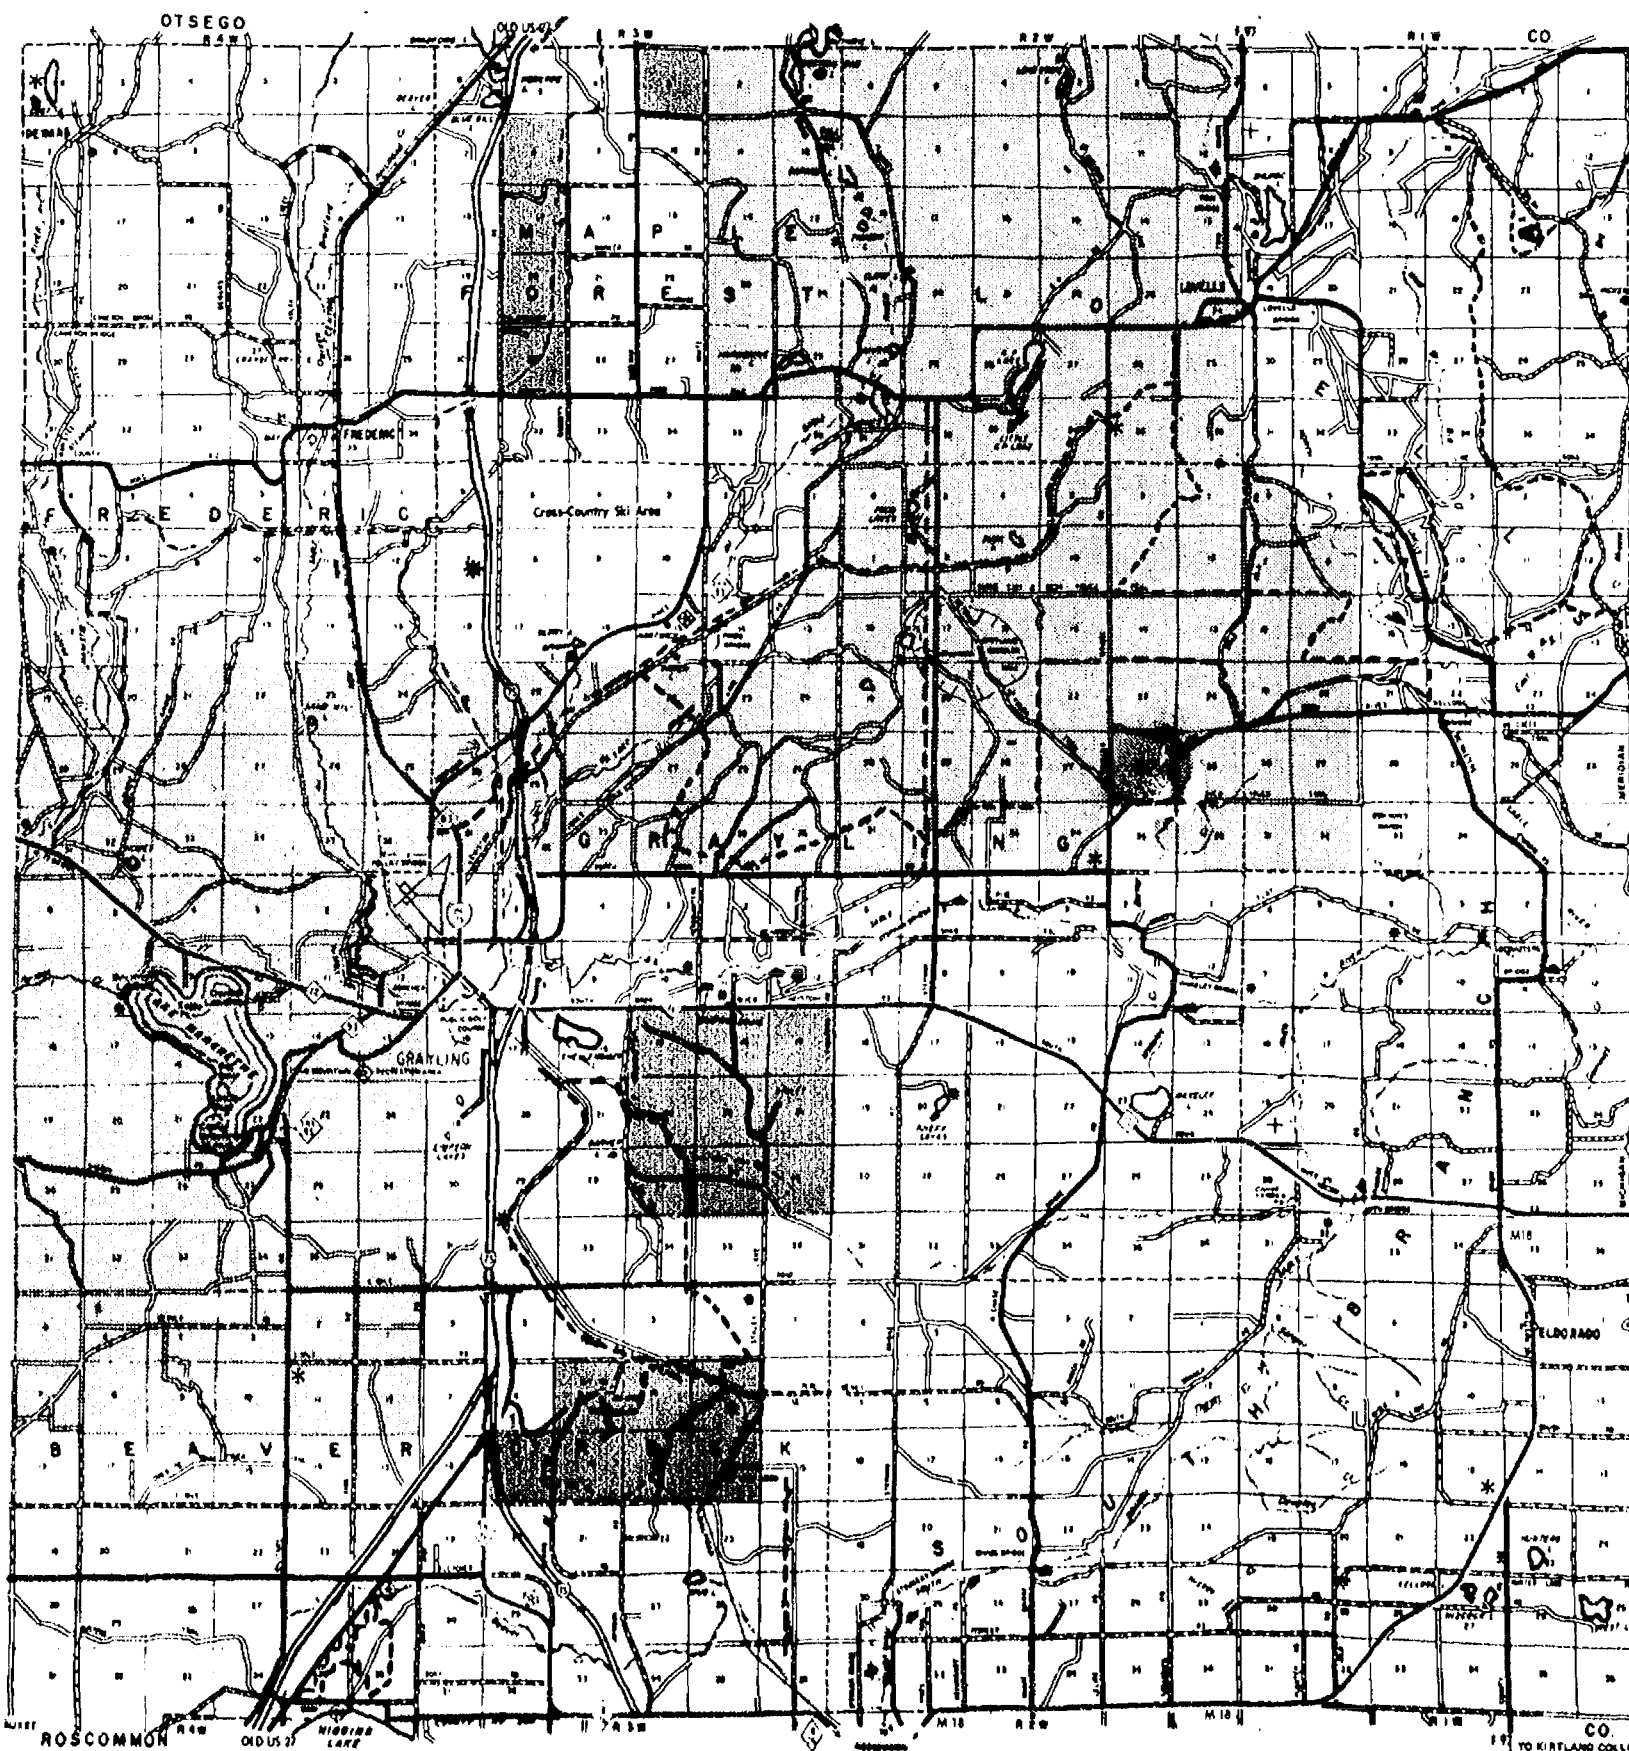

There will be experimental aircraft, ultralight aircraft, and military aircraft on display at the show along with remote control planes. The Traverse City Remote Control Club will be bringing over 1/4-scale models that are big enough for a person to sit in. The Houghton Lake Remote Control Club is also expected to bring planes to fly depending on the weather.

Prizes will be given out for the youngest and oldest pilots, oldest aircraft, and farthest distance flown. People's Choice trophies, a Production class trophy, and a Home-Built class trophy will be awarded. Dash plaques will be given for the first 20 aircraft arrivals. Door prizes will also be given away.

The public is invited to the Dawn Patrol and the traditional pancake and sausage breakfast will be available from 7:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Sloppy joes, hot dogs, and soda will be sold after 11 a.m.

Antique cars will also be on display at the show.

Call Susan McWhorter, 348-8712, for more details.

Natural River Plan

Discussion was held on the idea of a reduction of property values when the plan goes into effect. Carter denied that experience has shown a reduction in market values. Members of the audiences refused to believe that statement. Marion Shirkey asked whether there might be a rebate on taxes from the county if property values fell. There was no one in the audience who could answer that question.

Carter explained in answer to all questions that dealt with the need for variances that these could be granted by the Crawford County Zoning Board. He observed that once the NRC approved the plan, the county or township would have one year to adopt the zoning in the plan. If they did not, the state would step in and name a local zoning board with one DNR representative on it. At that point this would be the group that would be approached for a variance.

A couple expressed concern about what the plan would do to affect the Salling Dam. The dam has been in the news lately because the DNR claims it needs expensive repairs including a fish ladder and underwater spillway. Carter had no answer.

Carter told the group at the beginning of the meeting that the session was for asking and answering questions only. He said that there was no testimony to be taken at the meeting. It should be given at one of the public hearings later this month, he said.

Despite the caution about testimony, many in the audience delivered negative comments on the plan, the DNR and the NRC. A number of individuals felt very strongly that the NRC was attempting to manage the private property along the river to the detriment of the owners.

Carter said that the NRC has asked him to come up with a final recommendation on the plan for their meeting June 11-13 at the MacMullen Conference Center at Higgins Lake. He was not positive whether the commission would make a final decision at that meeting. He noted that persons would be permitted to speak at the open session about the plan.

A number of persons attending the session commented that the conference center would not be large enough to hold all of the residents and property owners. It was suggested that the NRC hold their meeting in Grayling since they should come to the city and see for themselves the opposition to the plan.

The Grayling public hearing will be held at Grayling High School on April 28 at 7 p.m. Other hearings will be held in Roscommon and Gaylord during the month.

Grayling Hosts Northeast Michigan Episcopal Churches

St. Francis, Grayling, hosted the meeting of the Northern Convocation of Episcopal Churches on Sunday, April 5th. All eleven churches of the northeast corner of Michigan sent representatives. Archdeacon Charles Stuart of Bay City opened the convocation by officiating at Evening Prayer.

The Rev. Thomas Downs of Trinity Episcopal Church, Alpena, conducted the business meeting and several important issues to the church life were presented to the group. The Rev. Derik Roy, Jr. presented the results of a recent compilation of statistics, explaining the demographics of the convocation. Nick Mumford, financial assistant to Bishop Coleman McGehee of the Diocese of Michigan, presented the details of a stewardship plan voted on by the annual Episcopal Church Diocesan Convention.

The Rev. Charles Woods, Church of the Transfiguration in Indian River, informed the convocation of optional plans for geographically dividing the Diocese of Michigan into two dioceses.

The convocation concluded by sharing a meal, organized by Mrs. Lynn Porter and a group of members of St. Francis Church.

Northern Views

By Jon Thompson

Space and names. Two small words that can cause complaints at your favorite small-town weekly.

Each week, the Avalanche would like to publish every news item and announcement sent to us or phoned in.

Some weeks, however, there isn't enough space to print everything. The number of pages is dictated by advertising.

What gets left out? Most often it is an item not as timely as others.

Most people want their items or announcements in the paper as soon as possible for various reasons. Waiting an extra week or two usually doesn't go over well with them.

Often we'll have news items typeset with headlines written all ready to go on a page, providing there is enough space. But there isn't enough room — other more timely items are selected first — and the items are held until next week.

Lack of space is also why we can't always run news items for two, three, or four weeks in a row as requested by some people.

We will try to publish items as soon as possible and we will attempt to run announcements additional weeks if space is available. But we can't guarantee anything.

Names are another bugaboo. Perhaps you haven't noticed it but it seems as if many parents have gone out of their way to come up with different spellings on names these days.

Take a simple (you thought) name such as

Mary Ann. Or is it Mary Anne? Mari Ann? Merry Ann? Marianne? Maryann? Or there are probably a couple of more ways I haven't come across yet.

When I'm out taking photographs or covering news, I don't take even traditional first names for granted. I ask the person to spell both names even at the risk of appearing stupid.

Take a look at this week's Avalanche. There are probably at least a couple of hundred names in it. Most of these names — such as in the bowling scores or school news — are dropped off at the Avalanche office.

Although it would be nice to be able to check the spelling of every name that appears every week, we obviously don't have enough time and personnel to call every person to verify spelling.

We do catch many of the misspelled names before they reach print. I catch some in editing stories but Rena Papendick, our typesetter, is great at catching misspelled names. Rena, a native of Grayling, probably knows how to correctly spell more Crawford County residents than anyone else in the county. Alice Galvani, Sharon Neely, and Ilene Hatfield also catch misspellings while proofreading copy.

If a misspelled name does slip through, please call us at 348-6811. Even if you don't want a correction published, your name will likely appear in our paper again and next time we can spell it correctly.

Letters to the Editor

Unlocking Cars Not Police Job

To The Editor:

After reading the letters to the editor column in the Thursday, April 2, edition of the Avalanche, a Mr. Thomas G. Brooks article brought my mind to thinking. He stated that it cost the county taxpayers $15.00 per man plus plus to send a police officer out on a call. I just read a magazine article that says police all over the country are refusing to unlock vehicles. Police in Jacksonville, Fla., Jacksonville Beach, Fernandina, Neptune Beach, St. Augustine, St. John County, plus a lot of places in Georgia, have turned in their Slim Jims because of law suits against the police dept. One woman sued a police dept. for $250,000 and collected on account of an officer, who unlocked her car, damaged the linkage. She was involved in an accident right afterward, her car caught fire, and she couldn't get the door open. She was severely burned.

Your police depts. in this area still unlock cars. I have a police scanner, and hear all police calls in your county and Roscommon county, and they are so busy unlocking cars that they forget what they were employed to do. The National Association of Chiefs of Police has sent letters out to all police agencies warning them to stop. But it seems like public relations is more important.

I glanced in our area phone book, and we have several qualified locksmiths, with the proper tools that are trying to make a living. Mr. Brooks stated it cost $15.00 to send a man out, the majority of your road service insurance policies will reimburse you for having a locksmith with the knowledge and proper tools to open your vehicles, without damages. Another article I read in this magazine says even with written permission, the officer is liable for a law suit and his dept. for destruction of private property.

Last fall, a fellow was sleeping in his upstairs apt. when a city policeman discovered smoke, woke the fellow up, and saved his life. What would have happened if this policeman was in another part of town unlocking or trying to unlock a car. I believe that when a policeman is not on call he should be patrolling. I do know in front of the mall you have lots of speeders and cars pulling out in front of you. I have only seen 3 or 4 police cars in over 4 years patrolling M-72 or I-75 Business Route. I just thought that I would remind you.

Forensics Team Shows Excellence

Dear Editor,

We want to congratulate Nancy Lemmen and the Grayling Forensics Team for providing a fine evening of entertainment Monday night at their local performance at the high school. We were impressed with the sensitivity, sophistication, and high spirits displayed in the speech event.

Because forensics includes individual and small group acts rather than a single group dramatic performance, it encourages students to express their individual talents in creating or selecting and improvising their own material. Individuality as well as breadth of interest was evident in the variety of both serious and humorous performances.

We are thankful that Grayling is a home for teachers with such high standards of excellence as Nancy Lemmen and for students who are as hard working and talented as those in Forensics.

Grayling Support Boosted Confidence

Dear Editor:

I would like to thank all the people who sent me letters congratulating me and cheering me on. I really appreciated all the support I received. It helped me boost my confidence. I thought about everyone during the spelling bee. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Angela Thompson

Schuette Combats Drug Traffickers

To The Editor:

RE: Congressman Schuette
Our community-oriented Association consists of both active and retired Law Enforcement personnel. We have long been aware, therefore, of the social and economic losses that our nation has been suffering due to the illegal importation of narcotics and drugs. Much like a newborn baby suffers withdrawal because of an addicted mother, America now suffers from decades of liberal permissiveness. Your 1986 efforts to combat this problem however, have not gone unnoticed.

Here in your home district, as well as in Congress, you have through word and deed battled those greedy drug traffickers who profit from the misery of others. Your support of the Lugren Amendment places your head and shoulders above the other elected leaders in our eyes. We hope that the courage you've demonstrated in the legislative branch will soon occur in other branches of government, so that this mandate may be carried forward. We are grateful.

Sincerely,
JoEllen Bonnington

Crawford County Deputy Sheriff's Association

U.S. Border Patrol Good Idea for Guard

Several weeks ago one of the gentlemen that was complaining about all the noise from the guard suggested that we send the national guard to guard the United States borders against illegal entry from Mexico.

Maybe he had a good idea. Since then I've read in the New York Times that 3 to 4 million refugees crossed last year alone and there is expected to be more this year. The Times said "that many are Communist infiltrators bringing in huge amounts of cash to finance the growing terrorist network already inside the United States."

Another Washington newspaper said one of the customs agents said "The U.S. border is so open that Khadyfi could drive a whole tank corps over it and no one would even notice" and another said "the 2,000 miles of border is virtually unprotected and the Soviets could fly from anywhere, under 5,000 feet, to escape the radar across this border and not be detected". He said "we just don't have the manpower or money available to stop this influx who are bringing with them everything from drugs to AIDS."

It seems that if troops can come from as far off as Connecticut we certainly could send them to our southern borders. I'm with the previous writer — it would at least slow down all the illegal entries and at the same time give our troops some meaningful training. Isn't that what it's all about?

James Huffman

Grayling
P.S. I'm sure the people and the environment wouldn't miss the noise.

State Capitol is getting Crowded

by Richard Millman

SEN. JOHN KELLY of Detroit has an idea.

He wants to evict the governor and the governor's office from the state capitol in Lansing and turn the whole building over to the legislature.

"I think the building was designed to deal with a very small executive office," Sen. Kelly said.

"I think if you took the space and evenly divided it between the House and the Senate with the appropriate offices for each member, we could bring everyone back into the Capitol."

Sen. Kelly suggested the governor's office would be better across the street somewhere.

AS TAXPAYERS, we better keep an eye on this development. Sen. Kelly may be a bit ahead of his time in the proposal, but it's not at all impossible that the governor may someday move out of the Capitol building.

It wasn't too many years ago that there were only a couple of office buildings in Lansing for all of state government, and the Capitol building was one of the important ones.

Some 20 to 30 years ago, the Capitol housed not only the House, Senate and governor's office — plus all the staffs assigned to these functions — but also the state law library, plus the state supreme court, plus the secretary of state, attorney general, auditor general, treasurer and superintendent of public instruction. Of course, that was before state government got so efficient that it had to grow in giant strides.

NOW, ALL OF THESE functions are outside the Capitol building, except the governor, Senate, House and some of the offices assigned to these functions. There are other office buildings in Lansing for legislative and gubernatorial staffs, committees and functions, too.

But just look at the growth of bricks and mortar in state government from the "good old days" of cozy confinement within the state capitol building:

— The supreme court and the attorney general now have a separate law building.

— The state treasury is now in its own building.

— The secretary of state is spread over several buildings in the Lansing area; so is the state educational function.

ALTHOUGH EARLY indication is that Sen. Kelly's suggestion will not get very far right now, don't bet on it never happening.

Maybe the governor someday will end up with his/her own building, dedicated solely to the executive office of state government.

The real culprit in this scramble for space is growth of all functions of government, spearheaded by the full-time legislature with its gigantic growth in staff support.

If the state could return to simpler times, that would mean less government activity and, therefore, less need for government buildings and government employees.

The important first step in controlling and eventually reducing the size of government is the willingness of the citizenry to accept less in service from the government.

Any volunteers to be first in line?

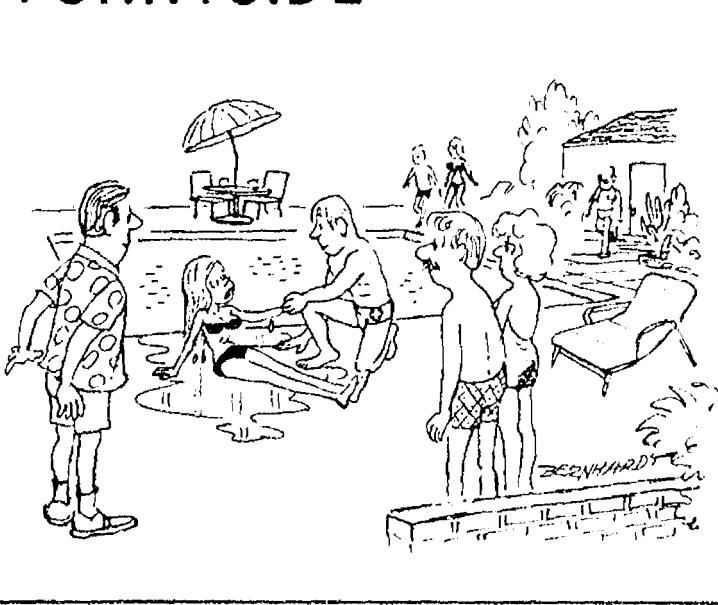

SOME CLOSING WORDS of wisdom from various sources:

From Robert Orben: Them that can, do. Them that can't, teach. And them that can't do either get a government grant.

From Edward Stevenson: A "consultant" is often one who knows all the best ways to run a business — but has never been able to hold a job long enough to try them.

From Bill Vaughan: Money won't buy happiness, but it will pay the salaries of a large research staff to study the problem.

Doodles From The Tall Timber

By Wendell L. Hoover
Park Interpreter

I'm certain that an old time wheelwright would have shuddered to the very tips of his toes had one been watching the proceedings within and without the workshop a couple weeks ago. It took four of us to put a rim on a wagon wheel and how the smoke did roll.

Looking at the wagon wheel without its rim with all the spaces between the felloe sections it was hard to believe that a rim, even when it shrunk, would impart solidity to that collection of hand shaped wood pieces. Since we did not want to cut the rim, it was necessary to reduce the circumference of the wheel. By using an instrument called a "traveler" the inside length of the rim was determined. The same instrument was used to determine that the outside length of the wheel was nearly three-quarters of an inch longer than the rim, which was what was needed according to one book on the subject.

Without a proper furnace to heat the rim, we built a circular fire on the ground outside the shop to heat the rim to what we hoped would be a dull red heat. The wagon wheel was placed hub down in one of the large drain holes in the shop floor since we lacked a wheelwrights platform. With the tools and water buckets in place, we kept the fire going to gain all the heat we could.

With tongs the rim was taken from the fire and quickly carried to the wheel. With one side of the rim held down over the wheel with an eight pound hammer, three of us started hammering it down over the wheel. It wouldn't quite go so it was necessary to use another wheelwrights tool called a "tire hook" to provide the necessary leverage to get the rim over the wooden felloe. With the rim hammered down flush with the felloe the iron was quickly cooled. The smoke was replaced by steam and wonder of wonders we amateurs had a great looking wagon wheel with a proper dish and no open joints in the wood parts.

Vikings Return Top Hitters For '87 Year

The top three hitters from Grayling's 1986 squad will lead the Vikings in this year's opener Saturday, April 25, at 10 a.m. at Onaway.

Juniors Jeff Palmer and John Kinnee and senior John Meagher are among 14 lettermen returning. Palmer led the team in home runs and batting average and Kinnee and Meagher were second and third in batting average.

Other senior lettermen returning are Jim Knight, 1B, Joe Erb, OF, and David Somerville, OF.

Junior lettermen returning are Clark Allen, 3B, Ron Bancroft, 2B, Steve Lehti, OF-C, Mike McNamara, 2B, Flaskie Robins, 2B, Jason Teddy, 1B, and Jeff Wolcott, C. Sophomore Chris Skidmore is also a returning lettermen. Skidmore, P-OF, started last year in several games as a pitcher.

Newcomers to the team are juniors Bob Butler, 1B-P-OF, Joey Ruddy, C-OF, and Matt Klempf, OF, sophomores Skeeter Apps, P-OF, Marty Jung, OF, Craig Hudson, OF, and freshman Brian Palmer, 1F.

Palmer will pitch, catch, and play outfield, Meagher will pitch and play shortstop, and Kinnee will play third base.

Mike Alma is the manager, Jenni Branch and Angie Larson are the scorekeepers, and Fred Wolcott will be coaching the Vikings for the seventh year.

Wolcott said if the team's pitching goes well, they could have a good season. He also said the team needs to improve defensively and cut down on the number of strikeouts.

"We need to make more contact with the ball," Wolcott said. "We have a lot of good players back but you never know how you're going to do until the season starts." Wolcott said the Michigan Huron Shores Conference will be as tough as ever.

"Gaylord will be tough and Petoskey loses only one player off a team that went to the state finals. The Soo will be tough and Rogers City is always good."

Grayling had 36 try out for the varsity squad and 21 stayed with the team through drills and conditioning. No players were cut.

Grayling has 21 games scheduled.

SPORTS FANS!

I Bet You Didn't Know

Brought To You By Tim Hart Sales Representative

Here's an amazing fact to think about...Several baseball players this year will make a salary TEN TIMES higher than the President of the United States...The President, by law, is paid a salary of $200,000 a year—but several baseball players such as Mike Schmidt, Jim Rice, George Brett and Eddie Murray reportedly will make over 2-million dollars each for 1987.

Who are the only 2 brothers ever to win the batting championship in big league baseball history? They are Dixie and Harry Walker...Dixie led the National League in batting in 1944, and his brother Harry did it in 1947.

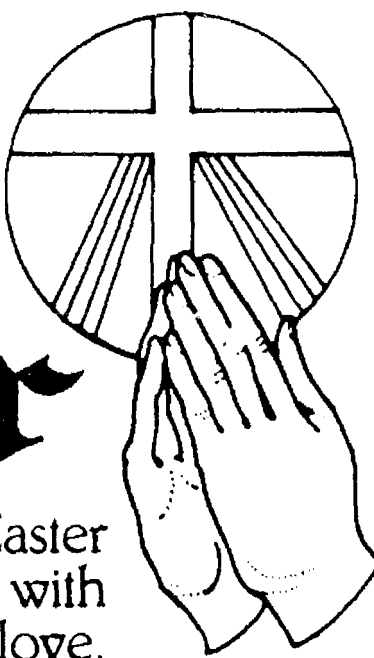

One of the most incredible feats in golf was accomplished by Arnold Palmer...Experts say the odds of making a hole-in-one on the same hole 2 days in a row are about 10-million to 1—but Palmer did exactly that on Sept. 2 and 3, 1966 at the Tournament Players Course in Avenel, Md...Palmer became the first pro in history ever to make a hole-in-one on the same tournament hole on 2 consecutive days.

I bet you didn't know...Scheer Motors in Grayling has been serving Grayling since 1966. We have expanded from 3 car lines to eight car lines and 2 truck lines. Thank you for your patronage.

Viking Skiers Honored At Annual Award Banquet

The Grayling Viking Ski Team held its annual awards banquet Wednesday, April 1st, at which time the top racers were honored for their individual achievements and contribution to the team.

The girls team, which placed 4th in both the Conference and Regional meets was led by Julie Huss and Cari Longworth. Huss was accorded honors as the girls' fastest skier by winning 5 of the 16 races she competed in this year and by being the highest placing Viking girls team racer in 14 out of 16 of those races. Huss and Longworth shared honors as "most consistent racer" as their times were used in 15 of 16 races for a 94% consistency rating and were named "co-most valuable racers" after sharing honors as Conference and Regional Medalists and qualifying as State Finalists.

The boys team, which placed 5th in the Conference and 7th in the Regional Meet, was led by Jayson Welsler who won honors as the fastest racer after winning 4 of 16 races and by being the highest placing Viking Boys Team Racer in 15 out of 16 of those races. Welsler was the "most consistent racer" as his times were used in all 16 races for a perfect 100% consistency rating and was named "most valuable racer" after taking honors as a Conference and Regional Medalist and qualifying for the State Meet.

Three graduating Seniors, Cari Longworth (4 year racer), Pam Lange (3 year racer) and Jenni Branch (3 year racer) were recognized for their outstanding contributions to the team and according to Coach Mike

Wieland, their loss to next years program will be significant as only 4 girls will be returning for the 87-88 season. The Boys Team, on the other hand, should be strong as all letter winners will be returning next winter.

Coach Wieland gave special recognition to three parents for their support of the ski program over the past several years; Kent Reynolds and John Huss for serving as course referees at the Regional Meets and Larry Gust for video taping practices and races in order to assist the racers in studying their technique. Jon Thompson, Crawford County Avalanche Editor, was recognized for his support of the ski program through the donation of generous weekly sports page coverage, and finally, Wieland applauded all of the racers' parents who equipped their sons and daughters, donated their time helping Carol Gust outfit the entire team in new giant slalom speed suits and assisted in organizing and running the meets hosted by Grayling.

County 4-H'ers Attend Capitol Experience

Two Crawford County 4-H members were among nearly 100 young people and adults from across Michigan who attended the 4-H Capitol Experience March 29-April 1 in Lansing.

Mary Beth Boone and Kevin Hinderleider, both of Grayling, spent three days learning about the many functions of state government and how individual involvement is important at the city, county and state levels.

"The purpose of the program is to make young people aware of how their state government works and encourage them to take part in public affairs," says

Margo Smith, 4-H Capitol Experience coordinator.

Participants visited the Michigan Senate and House of Representatives and met individually with their district representatives. They also heard presentations from government lobbyists, members of the news media and state agency representatives, and took part in Lansing-area community service projects.

Participants also spent time working together in small group sessions to share what they had learned and improve their leadership and interviewing skills.

After returning home, Boone and Hinderleider are expected to put to use the knowledge they gained through the 4-H Capitol Experience program by Participating in area community action programs.

4-H Experience is sponsored by the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service 4-H Youth and Natural Resources and Public Policy programs.

Golnick Honored By Council For 20 Years of Service

The Grayling City Council Monday night honored one of their own as Mayor Pro-Tem Robert Golnick was applauded for his 20 years as a councilman.

A resolution adopted by the council and awarded Golnick in a framed format expressed appreciation for the many years he has served the city and its residents. A suitably framed engraved wall clock was also presented as a gift for serving the citizens of Grayling.

A lifelong resident of the area, Golnick is married and has two children. He served in the Air Force from Nov. 1951 to Nov. 1955.

Golnick served on the Grayling-Grayling Township Volunteer Fire Department force for 23 years including a stint as fire chief. The resolution honoring him on his retirement from the department stated in part, "He has been called out at all hours of the day and night and in all kinds of weather, risking his health and life to protect the lives and property of the residents and business owners."

At the present time Golnick serves as the chairperson for Regions 8 and 9 of the Michigan Municipal League extending from mid-Michigan to the straits. He is also on the Board of Trustees of the league.

Other appointive positions which he has accepted and served the public well include the Crawford County Housing Commission and the Tax Allocation Board.

The Mayor Pro-Tem first accepted that position on December 30, 1974 and he continues to serve in that capacity.

The resolution recognizing his many years of council service said in part, "He has been instrumental in the city street program, city industrial park, sewer lagoon expansion, and many other projects while representing the citizens of Grayling." The resolution closed by thanking him for a job well done and encouraged citizens to show their appreciation.

Resource Review

Lake ecologists have categorized most lakes in the world into three types: (1) the oligotrophic/eutrophic cycle of ordinary lakes; (2) special type lakes such as bog lakes, salt lakes or volcanic lakes among others; and (3) impoundments.

Locally, we have two very good examples of the first type. Higgins Lake is deep, clear, cold, biologically unproductive, has upper and lower layers separated by a thermocline, and with little shallow water or littoral, type vegetation. This is the typical description of an Oligotrophic Lake. Oligotrophic translates roughly as "few foods" or "scant food". Because there is little food production at the lower end of the food chain, there is less and less production as you go up the chain. Generally, lake trout cisco and other cold water bottom fishes are at the top of the food chain.

On the other hand, shallow, warm water lakes with more abundant vegetation, algae "blooms", less oxygen and more nutrients are called eutrophic or "rich food" lakes. Houghton Lake is a very good example of this type of lake. Its weed beds offer habitat for the many species of warm water fish found there. For example: northern pike, bass, bluegills and walleyes.

There is a natural aging process for lakes called eutrophication. As Higgins Lake changes over hundreds or thousands of years; getting shallower, warmer and more populated by different species of plants and animals, it will become a eutrophic lake. Perhaps Houghton Lake, if it exists at all at that time, will be a small pond supporting algae and frogs, too shallow for fish to live.

This is a natural process which will occur in time. Man in many cases speeds the process, however. By putting excess nutrients into a lake through septic tank and fertilizer use, for example, he increases the growth of algae and other vegetation, enhancing the process.

Free Blue Spruces Available

The National Arbor Day Foundation is giving ten free Colorado Blue Spruce trees to everyone who becomes a Foundation member during April, 1987.

The free trees are part of the nonprofit Foundation's effort to encourage tree planting for conservation and beautification throughout America.

"Colorado Blue Spruces were selected for this campaign because of their many uses in the home landscape," John Rosenow, the Foundation's executive director, said. "They lend beauty to their surroundings with their silver blue-green color and compact conical shape. They can be used as individual ornamentals, an energy-saving windbreak, a privacy screen, or as living Christmas trees."

The ten free Colorado Blue Spruces will be shipped postpaid in April or May with enclosed planting instructions. The six to twelve inch trees are guaranteed to grow, or they will be replaced free of charge. The Foundation will give the ten free trees to each new member contributing $10 during April.

To become a member of the Foundation and to receive the free trees, a $10 membership contribution should be sent to TEN BLUE SPRUCES, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, NE 68410, by April 30, 1987.

Saturday, May 2, 1987. The Marital Team Building Seminar offers six sessions designed to not only give you principles but the "how-to's" to experience greater oneness and teamwork in your marriage.

The material has been developed by Leadership Dynamics International, which is a ministry of Christian leadership development, and features Bruce Cook who has served on management task forces for AT&T, United Airlines and Coca-Cola. Also featured is Dr. Howard Hendricks, professor at Dallas Theological Seminary, who is a celebrated consultant and the author of three best-selling books, "Heaven Help The Home," "Don't Fake It... Say It With Love," and "Battle of the Gods."

For additional information and application blank, you may call Pastor Knasel at 348-9093 or 348-5362. Reservations should be made by April 22 and there is a limit on the number of applicants that can be accepted.

T.U. Chapter Meets Here

The Bible Speaks

From Calvary Baptist Church

Has the Jesuit revolution against the Pope and Church destroyed the orthodox Catholic faith? Will the Jesuit revolution in Central America lead to the fall of the United States and free enterprise? These questions may seem unreasonable until one reads "The JESUITS, The Society of Jesus and the Betrayal of the Roman Catholic Church." This best-seller written by Malachi Martin abounds with names, dates, decisions and events which will impact the future of every living human being on this planet. Martin is an internationally respected scholar and expert on the Catholic Church, professor at the Vatican's Pontifical Biblical Institute, conservative theologian and prolific author.

Martin describes in detail the shift in philosophy and goals of the Jesuits priests in one generation from loyal and obedient to the Pope and church into liberal atheists who have adopted Marxism and plan to transform the sociopolitical face of the United States and rest of the West. He describes the war between the Pope and his Jesuits as they undermine the moral code of the church, and adopt a secular answer to world problems.

Orthodox terminology is given a different meaning. Martin explains the deceptive language being used to disarm people. When they refer to the historic Jesus whose deity they deny, he is an armed revolutionary, while mystically he is all the oppressed people collectively. The virgin Mary is the mother of all revolutionary heroes. The Eucharist is the bread freely made by the liberated workers. Hell is the capitalist system. Satan is President Regan. Justice is redistribution of capitalist gains to the people or 'mystical body' of Christ. The church is the ordinary people under the guidance of Marxist leaders. The enemy is all capitalist classes located chiefly in the United States. To be a Christian, one must be a revolutionary. Nicaragua is the "Liberation" model for the world. Their slogan is, "Revolution throughout the Americas."

Liberal attacks upon the integrity and judgment of both President Reagan and the Pope concerning Central America and Nicaragua in particular, are more than an accident. The father of the New Age Movement, Jesuit Pierre Teilhard De Chardin, is also described by Martin in his new book as one of three key Jesuits who set this revolution in motion. Every American should be interested in the underlying philosophies and facts which are shaping our world. They are rapidly leading to the fulfillment of Revelation 17 and 18. Jesus is coming — soon!!!

When No Shadow Fell

Scriptures Selected by The American
Bible Society

Scripture records that on the first Good Friday, from the sixth to the ninth hour, there was darkness over the earth. By Hebrew count that would be from Noon until three o'clock. These hours on Good Friday are still widely observed as a time of solemn devotion.

Though no shadow fell on Calvary during those three tragic hours, the shadow of Christ's Cross has ever since fallen hauntingly across the pages of time... the globes of human culture.

Can the shadow of a political execution in a Roman province centuries ago have impact on modern man in the space age?

No! Not the shadow—that is absorbed in the dark of man's suffering and tragedy.

It is the Light that men see and believe in. The Light that penetrates all gloom. The Light that radiates from God and makes the years of His Son's ministry on earth the brightest years of History... gleaming with hope and promise and faith for every generation.

North Branch Notes

By Marlene Harris
348-2587

The peace and serenity of life on the Northbranch is a strong pull for many people who live here. Sometimes outside influences take them away for a while, but many seem to find their way back. One of our local couples who have felt that pull strongly over the years, are Gary and Cheryl Hopp.

They were both born and raised in Rochester, Michigan. Gary graduated from Rochester High in 1970, then a year later Cheryl graduated also. These two high school sweethearts were married in 1972 and bought their North Branch property in 1973.

The Hops moved to a rented house near Stephan Bridge in 1974. Gary worked in Roscommon at Eckery Tool for five years until they started closing down operations. During those years they put a mobile home on their property and moved to our area. Cheryl worked at LP Plastics from 1975 until 1978 when their first son, Brett was born in February. The next year Travis was born in October.

Gary went to Kirtland Community College to earn a degree in Natural Resources, but the program disbanded after his first year. The next two summers found him working for the DNR, first in the forestry division, then on the river crew. He also had quite a growing client for his art as a taxidermist. His fine work can be found in many cabins in our area.

The need to make an adequate living for their growing family urged Gary to take the civil service test and apply at Camp Lehman. He was told that they only hired experienced personnel, so he proceeded to get that experience with his ultimate goal in mind: move back to their North Branch home and work at Camp Lehman. He applied at Jackson State Prison and was immediately hired as a corrections officer. The old term "prison guard" has not been used for many years. I'm told that, at one time, Jackson State Prison was a self-supporting correctional facility, where the inmates raised their own food. That is no longer the case, but they still have a textile plant where they make their own undergarments and shoes. The prisoners also make our license plates and all of the state road signs. Many of the inmates from the various correctional facilities sell their craft projects in Hobby-Craft stores throughout Michigan.

Gary was at the Jackson Prison during the riot several years ago, but he tells me that he has never had a prisoner try to harm him. He loves his job and feels that any rehabilitation of a prisoner must come from within themselves.

In July of 1973, Gary obtained a transfer to the Kinross Correctional Facility in the Soo. They all loved living in the U.P. but it wasn't home. They had sold their mobile home and built a basement for the log home they dreamed about. Cheryl and the boys moved into it and Gary commuted on weekends to their North Branch home. Gary found old barns in the U.P. to tear down and used the weathered barn wood for panelling in their basement home that has a fantastic view of the river.

It took them a detour of five long years to finally accomplish their goal of a job at Camp Lehman and answer the pull of the North Branch that they felt so strongly.

Since Gary has now worked at three totally different types of correctional facilities, I asked him to explain the difference between them. He told me that Jackson State Prison is for the hard core criminals of violent crimes with a long term to serve. Kinross is for those who are near the end of their term while Camp Lehman hopes to prepare them to re-enter society. The inmates at Lehman work with the DNR, help out at Camp Grayling, maintain the city cemetery, and their latest project was the restoration of the train depot.

While Gary worked in the U.P., Cheryl has kept busy raising the two boys and learning basket weaving. Their home is filled with the lovely baskets she has made. Cheryl is now enjoying working as one of the "picture ladies" in the school system. She takes prints of famous paintings and has fun seeing how the kids interpret them while she explains the picture to them. She also spends one day volunteering her time as a helper for the fifth grade at Frederic Elementary School.

Each nice day find Gary and Cheryl outside peeling cedar logs for their home. They have built a two car garage out of 220 logs and are part way through the 400 logs it will take for the house.

To steal a phrase from Paul Harvey, you will now hear "the rest of the story."

Cheryl and Gary have never been ardent church goers, but felt nevertheless, a family should have a spiritual life together. They tried various churches during their years moving around and finally found their way to the Lovells Chapel. Their welcome there was so warm and open that they felt an immediate closeness.

Over the past year or so, the Pastor has involved Gary more and more in the Sunday services. Gary was asked to sub for him while he went away for an occasional weekend. This last winter found Pastor Arnold in Arizona and Gary as the temporary Pastor. Now that Pastor Arnold has returned and notified the congregation of his retirement, Gary has been made the permanent Pastor of the Lovells Chapel. Gary is excited and inspired by his new role in the community. He is hoping to hold an old-fashioned revival the week after Easter with a prayer meeting on Wednesday, April 29 at 7:00 p.m.; a song festival on Friday, May 1 at 7:00 p.m.; and regular worship services on Sunday, May 3.

Cheryl and Gary are both wondering about the strong pull to this area they have felt over the years. Why was it always so strong? Only time will tell.

Scheer Motors Remains At Forefront In Ever-Changing Automotive Business

By Don Geiss

From the position of a used car manager in Flint in the summer of 1965 to a retired status by way of a large General Motors - Chrysler dealership in Grayling is the story of Bill Scheer and the present Scheer Motors operation.

As son Brad Scheer tells the story, Bill was looking for a dealership in Michigan or Ohio at that time, the Chevrolet, Oldsmobile, Cadillac dealership in Grayling was owned by Dick Dodge. It was located across from the old downtown water tower where Showtime Video is now in the recently developed mall.

At that time there was a Buick dealership and one for Pontiac, but no Chrysler dealership. Bill purchased the dealership from Dick Dodge.

In 1971, Bill was joined by a partner, John Harland, also from Flint. Together they engineered the addition of Buick and Jeep to the dealerships line of cars. They also erected the current building that houses Scheer Motor's G.M. showroom and all the mechanical service. In 1974 they added the Pontiac franchise, becoming Michigan's only full line G.M. dealership.

During the recession that began in 1979 it was necessary to drop the Jeep line.

During the same year John Harland sold his interest in the business to Bill, who turned the management over to Brad and went into semi-retirement. He began spending his winters in Florida and returning in spring to act as a consultant to Brad. He retired for good in 1984 but not before he saw the addition of Chrysler, Plymouth, Dodge and Dodge Trucks to the lineup.

Brad said that accepting the Chrysler line was a gamble because the recession did not appear to be over, and Chrysler was in financial trouble. As part of the agreement, Scheer Motors was to build a separate sales facility to display Chrysler products.

Upon his retirement, Brad and his brother John were given the company.

In early 1985 the new Chrysler sales facility was built. Brad commented that the new building gave the business the opportunity to work out some inefficiencies. He noted that when the company was selling 30 to 40 cars per month, one wash rack was enough, but when they reached 100 cars per month, it was not satisfactory. They eliminated the Body Shop from the original building and added it to the new Chrysler facility.

The space in the original building was transformed into a 6 stall washroom for new car preparation and used car reconditioning.

Brad says that one of the proud high points, his father emphasizes is that the company began with 8 employees and that now there are over 40. Norman Lavrack the Parts Manager has been with the company for 21 years and others have as many as 12 years of service.

There have been many changes in the automobile business in the past few years. There are 4 computers and assorted terminals in the Scheer facility. Mail between the auto makers and the dealership is becoming less necessary each day.

Service tools at the dealership have become much more sophisticated, as have the cars of today. Electronics plays a much larger part in today's automobiles, and total replacement, instead of repair, of components is becoming more common.

With the G.M. line as well as the Chrysler line of cars and trucks, a large inventory is necessary and at the end of February the lots held well over 3 million dollars worth. The employee payroll of the company for 1986 was over $725,000.

As to future plans, there might someday be another dealership in the works, but the time is not ripe now, Brad commented. He said that multi-store dealers seems to be the direction of the automobile business today.

Whatever the future may bring, one has the impression when spending time observing the comings and goings at Scheer Motors that it is a busy concern, using modern methods and tools to serve its customers.

The Scheer brothers will not hesitate to do what ever it takes to stay competitive in today's ever-changing automobile business.

Is Carob Better Than Chocolate?

By Gail Edwards,
Extension Home Economist

With Easter rapidly approaching, many health-conscious "Easter bunnies" are considering substituting carob candy for the chocolate usually found in their baskets. Is this a truly more healthful choice?

If you're making the substitution to decrease the saturated fats in your diet, the answer is no. Though unprocessed carob powder is lower in fat than cocoa powder, both powders are mixed with saturated fats and additional sugar when they are made into solid candy.

The label on the carob candy may state that vegetable oils are used, but these are usually palm kernel oil and coconut oil, both of which are more highly saturated than cocoa butter. This means that some carob bars contain more saturated fats than many chocolate bars.

Does substituting carob candy for chocolate have any health benefits?

Carob contains no stimulant, whereas cocoa contains theobromine, which is similar to caffeine in its effects. Most chocolate candy bars contain about as much stimulant as a 12 oz. can of cola.

There are also differences in the nutrient composition of carob and cocoa powders. Cocoa is higher in protein, phosphorus and iron. Carob is higher in calcium. However, the amount of any of these nutrients in candy made from either carob or cocoa is negligible. Neither should be considered a significant source of nutrients other than calories.

One true advantage carob has is that people who are allergic to chocolate may eat it. Carob does have a distinct flavor, however, so it may take a bit of imagination to believe you are eating chocolate.

When cooking with carob powder, remember that it has more sugar (48 percent) than cocoa powder (5 percent) so you will need to reduce that amount of sugar in recipes when substituting carob powder. You must also remember to lower the oven temperature by 25 degrees to avoid burning the carob.

Mental Health

We are all acquainted with the older person who cannot for the life of him remember where he left his keys, where he has placed his glasses, or what he had for breakfast. Yet the very same individual who has memory deficit for comparatively recent events will remember with the greatest of clarity some event that occurred 30 or 40 years back and will relate this remembered episode with the most minute detail.

How can we explain this strange phenomenon? What does it mean? The dulling of recent memory and the sharpening of the remembrance of things past are, psychologically speaking, an actual turning away from the painfulness of the present.

The present is lacking in security and achievement, the past carries forever the record of a life lived successfully. Not only is the memory loss a defense against the impoverishment of the present, but implicit in it is also an attempt to conserve energy. To remember requires an expenditure of psychic energy which the aging individual is loath to fritter away. Should the happenings of the present be very important to the unity of the person or gratifying in nature, they will not easily be forgotten.

That the above is true may be indicated by two factors. First, the type of memories that the aged retain are those which in one way or another point up the individual's former mastery of his environment. It is as if the person were to say, "Look, I have not always been this poor, weak or unattractive. There was a time when people had to reckon with me."

Secondly, experiences have clearly indicated that it is not impossible to teach an old person new skills. The old adage that you can't teach an old dog new tricks is all but discredited. It may be more difficult, but it can certainly be done. Learning is dependent on memory and here again the aging person shows that he can learn if he is convinced that what he is to master will enhance his life, give him prestige and will be appreciated.

GPA Plans Summer Activities

The GPA are holding their meetings for three months during the spring at Englund's Table. The women are busy planning for their spring and summer activities helping to promote the area which is the purpose of the organization.

Now that warmer weather has arrived and the depot will soon be opening again, plans are going ahead for the women's old-fashioned dress shop that will be the GPA's display in the upstairs of the depot. Norma Naour, chairman, reported that she has almost enough items for the display and as soon as some necessary construction is done, it will be ready to be set up.

The Casino Royale to be held at the Holiday Inn in May will also be aided by the GPA when some of the women will serve as hostesses and waitresses for the Chamber fundraiser.

Some of the women will be attending the Futuring Conference at the Holiday Inn this week and reporting back to the group. Others will be attending a business conference in Saginaw.

Donna Thompson and Betty Bennett will co-chairmen the Milltown Parade this summer and plans are well underway for that activity.
